The Metropolitan Government of Nashville and Davidson County rolls out Everbridge's Critical Event Management platform to its nearly 700,000 residents

BURLINGTON, Mass.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jun. 6, 2019-- Everbridge, Inc. (NASDAQ: EVBG), the global leader in critical event management software that helps keep people safe and businesses running, today announced that its mass notification solution will be used to power alerts for Nashville and Davidson County, Tennessee in times of emergency. The Metro Emergency Alert & Notification System (MEANS) will deliver safety instructions via cellphone, landline, and SMS for localized emergencies such as flooding, public health emergencies or active shooter situations.

"This is an important way for us to keep the community updated on incidents happening in Nashville and Davidson County," said Chief William Swann, Director, Nashville Fire Department. "The Everbridge system will be leveraged by Metro Government to communicate directly to the public. Residents and visitors can feel confident that when they receive alerts, they are getting accurate information straight from a Metro public safety agency."

Metro officials also urge residents to download the Everbridge Mobile App, which brings the added security of delivering alerts to cell phones based on a user's physical location at the time of an emergency.

"The Everbridge app provides Metro with a key alerting capability because it enables us to send safety instructions to residents who happen to be in the vicinity of an emergency in real time," said Department of Emergency Communication's Director Michele Donegan.
